

Warren Buffett: 'I haven't heard him say anything yet that I disagree with'

Billionaire investor Warren Buffett said Tuesday he agrees with Donald Trump's stance on tax policy.

Warren Buffett, the chairman and CEO of Berkshire Hathaway, said he supports raising taxes on wealthier Americans and treating carried interest as income, both ideas expressed by the Republican front-runner, who is expected to provide more details on the economic plan in the coming weeks.

"I wouldn't be surprised if I agree with quite a bit of his economic program," Buffett told Bloomberg Television.

"I have, in terms of tax policy, I haven't heard him say anything yet that I disagree with," Buffett said.

Earlier Tuesday, Sen. Elizabeth Warren (D-Mass.) also said she shares a similar view on taxes with Trump.

"Donald Trump and I both agree that there ought to be more taxation of the billionaires, the people who are making their money on Wall Street," Warren said on ABC's "The View."
